TRENDS OF CONSUMPTION IN EUROPE

central do
VAREJO

Conscious RETAIL

CONSUMPTION AND CONSCIOUSNESS

- Preference for eco-friendly brands: Europeans are increasingly concerned about the environment, opting for recyclable, organic, and products with a low carbon footprint.
- Circular economy: Increase in demand for second-hand products, clothing rental, and repairs instead of disposal.
- Reduction of plastics: The preference for biodegradable packaging and the rejection of products with excess plastic is growing.

Why put sustainability in your strategy?

First, it is the correct to do.

Secondly, your business will disappear in a few years if you do not do it.

JAVIER QUINONES
CEO Ikea US

Ikea green friday

The Swedish giant launched a furniture subscription model, intends to become circulable by 2030, and launched the service for customers to buy furniture in exchange for a discount.

In 2021, it showed growth in sales, which totaled 41.9 billion euros.

Rothy's recycled shoes

Rothy's shoes are made from 100% recycled plastic bottles and other materials, sewn by hand. The most-sold shoe costs 145 dollars. The shoes are very light and flexible, without seams or hard edges, and they absorb moisture, working all year.

CEO Nordstrom

By biodegradable fashion

All its products, which range from glasses, phone cases, watch straps, among others, are made of biodegradable and compostable materials, free of BPA, lead, and cadmium. The brand has an innovative design and donates part of its revenue to governmental entities.

Native Shoes biodegradable fashion

Every year, 300 million pairs of shoes go to landfills. Native Shoes uses vegan materials to relieve its carbon footprint in the world. They also reduce waste by collecting old pairs of Native Shoes to give them a new life as a playground floor and roof insulation. The most remarkable is its limited edition Plant Shoe, the first 100% biodegradable shoe made from all natural materials and can be composted after use.

H&M loop machine

The machine is able to transform an old garment into a new exclusive garment in 5 hours, charging from 8 to 13 pounds.
